

- DEAR NEIGHBOR,

Do You Care About ISRAEL?

AmericansForIsrael.com

I Know You Do. But Do Our Politicians?

- ➔ Do you know that the US Government, whether Republican or Democrat, gives 3 times more of your tax dollars to Israel's Arab enemies than it does to Israel? (*Source: U.S. Department of State)
- ➔ What about President Bush's $20 billion and President Obama's record $60 billion weapons deal with Saudi Arabia (a supporter of the terrorist group Hamas)? How can we ensure that those weapons won't end up in terrorists' hands?
- ➔ Are you as frustrated as I am that our politicians force Israel to consult with them before it defends itself (think Iran)? Why can't Israel do what it thinks is in its best interest without seeking approval from Washington?

Isn't it time we vote for a candidate who respects Israel's right to defend itself and would stop giving our hard earned tax money to Israel's enemies?

That's why I'm voting for Ron Paul in our Republican Presidential Primary

- In 1981, Ron Paul was one of the only members of congress to defend Israel's right to bomb Iraq's Osiraq Nuclear Reactor. While almost all other members of the U.S. government and the world (the United Nations General Assembly even passed a resolution condemning Israel's defensive actions) criticized Israel for the attack, Ron Paul publicly stood up for Israel's right to defend herself.
- Ron Paul is opposed to organizations like the United Nations.
- Ron Paul wants to stop giving your hard earned money to all foreign governments.

You may ask, as I have, "Wouldn't ending US aid to the Israeli government endanger its people?"

But think about this, all of Israel's enemies would not be receiving a single penny of your tax money either. That includes Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon, Pakistan, Jordan and more. Furthermore, the "aid" itself is a form of corporate welfare. For example, the US has given more than $50 Billion to Egypt since 1979 with the condition that the Egyptian government buys weapons from specific American corporations. And now with the Egypt's dictator overthrown, what will the money and weapons be used for? This has to stop. Please continue reading...

It's true that Israel is a small state in a highly dangerous neighborhood, but compared to its enemies, it is stronger economically, technologically, and militarily — not to mention its large nuclear arsenal. Cutting the apron strings to the US would make Israel become more maturely self-confident and secure, because it would be more self-reliant.

A Ron Paul presidency would be healthy for Israel in yet another way. Ron Paul is opposed to organizations like the United Nations and the International Criminal Court that dilute national sovereignty. If the United States, in a Paul administration, withdrew from the UN and similar institutions, imagine what a

"I believe that we can now say that Israel has reached childhood's end, that it has matured enough to begin approaching a state of self-reliance... We are going to achieve economic independence." - Benjamin Netanyahu blow this would deliver to their power and prestige. I find it a thrilling prospect. Maybe Israel would have a wise enough government to follow suit.

Since the Six Day War, US presidents and presidential candidates have tended to speak of the US and Israel as great friends and allies. They have also tended to favor the shrinking of Israel's borders. US foreign aid to Israel has been a mixed blessing. Let's face it... the status quo isn't working.

Let's join together and finally take a logical approach towards our beloved Land of Israel by voting for Ron Paul.
